THE KNOXVILLE WHIG.

Knoxville, Tenn., May 16, 1866.

Admitting the Southern States.

The reconstructed rebeis and Northern Demo crats are very anxious that the eleven seceded States should be at once represented in Congress. If they were, they would have 22 Senators and 84 Representatives-thus enabling one-seventh of the population of the United States to control one-third of its legislative powers, as before the rebellion, and this control would be used for the destruction of the Goverament. These States only come back to the doors of the old Union, knocking for admittance, after they had been soundly thrashed. They are not even professing to be in favor of the Union. If they could, they boldly avow that they would revive the exploded Confederacy at once—they would provoke a war with England or France, hoping thereby to secure their independence. They have no regrets for having brought on the rebellion, and say they would do the same thing over, under like circumstances. They are, in a word, more malicious now than they were at the time of Lee's surrender, and as malevolent and disloyal as they were in 1861 .-This is especially so of the leaders and politicians. They were four dreadful years affoat upon the angry sea of rebellion, working like pirates to destroy the

A suggestion of insolvency was made of the estate. On the 31st of may, 1859, James Tarpley, the husband of petitioner, made and executed a deed of trust to Me-Callough, the defendant, conveying the tract of land of 185 zeres, and the tract of twenty-eight acres, to secure Ine tract of one hundred and eighty-five acres is the same which the complaintant in the suit referred to, was declared to have a resulting trust. The deed of trust was duly registered. A sale of the land was ordered by the creditors. An injunction was issued upon the filing of the petition, to restrain the sale of the lands until the matters of this petition were heard. The petitioner asks to be endowed of one-third of the tract of twenty sink. him in the payment of $300, and the value of a slave .matters of this petition were heard. The petitioner asks to be endowed of one-third of the tract of twenty-eight acres, and of such interest as may be decreed of the 185 collector's fee 1 00, clerk's fee 1 50, printer's fee 1 50. Total

The question presented for determination of the court, is whether a widow whose husband has executed a deed of trust to secure his creditors, which has been duly registered in his life time, and not cold, can have dower specifically assigned her in the lands conveyed. By the common law the widow is entitled to one-third of all the lands of which the husband was seized during coverture. This right commences with the marriage and terminates upon the death of the husband. By the act of 1784, the right of the widow was restricted to all the lands of which the husband died, seized and possessed. Subsequent acts were passed extending the right of dower to equitable in-

were passed extending the right of dower to equitable interests. The courts have always given a broad and lib eral construction to the statutes giving the right of dower. It is a right as old as the common law, and that have een cherished by the legislature and courts. It is recognized as a claim superior to creditors, and all others who did not have a specific lien upon the land. Dower is preferred to the claims of creditors who have obtained a judgement against the husband in his life time, and had their executions levied on the lands. Any at-semps on the part of the husband to defeat it is fraudulent and void as to her. A mortgage or deed of trust executed by the husband previous to the passage of the act of 1856, ch. 57, defeated her of dower-5 Hump. 26: 8 Hump., 710. These decisions induced the Legislature to pass the act of 1856. That act provided when the husband died before the mortgage was foreclosed, or a sale of land under the deed of trust was made, the widow should be endowed out of the land. This act is carried into the code, Sec. 2,399. By section 2,398 of the code, if any person die intestate leaving a widow, she shall be entitled to dower in one-third of all the lands of which her husband died. seized and possessed, or of which he was the equitable owner. By the act of 1823, widows were entitled to dower out of the equitable estate of which the husband was the owner at their death. This act was carried into the code in this section. Section 2,399 provides she shall be entitled to dower in lands mortgaged or conveyed to pay debts, when the husband dies before foreclosure of the mortgage or sale under the trust deed.

If it was the intention of the Legislature to give her dower only in the surplus after the payment of the debts secured in the deed, this section can have no meaning, as the provious section gives her the right of dower in equitable estates.

The decisions of this court in the case of Gieer, et al. Hump., and Wm. Gieer vs. Cherry, S Hump., hold a deed of trust or mortgage defeated the widow's dower, or that she would be prefered to the creditors secured. The act of 1856, ch. 57, giving the widow the right of dower in mortgages and trust deeds when the same were not closed in the husband's life time, the provisions of that no doubt it was the intention of the law to endow her of all lands which had been mortgaged by the husband, or conveyed to secure debts, when the mortgage had not been foreclosed, or sale made, under the deed. Her claims are paramount to the creditors secured, and will be enforced.

The section of the code is plain and not ambiguous. If the section of the code is plain and not ambiguous and expresses elexify the object of the Ligislature to was extend this ancient and cherished right of dower to mortgages and lands conveyed in trust to pay debts. The petitioner is entitled to dower in the tract of twenty-eight acres, and to that portion of the 185 acres that may be decreed in the settlement of the case in which the resulting trust was declared by this court, and which had been to do dower in the North side of Holston River and adjoining the lands of Mrs J Dickinson and others, value 2,500, tax 18 87%, collector feet 100, clerk's fee 1 100, clerk's feet act being carried into the code, in section 2,399,can leave
